PLAIN FACTS REGARDING ISAAC ALDERETE'S PAST RECORD AND QUALIFICATIONS

Isaac Alderete, the present incumbent of the office of District Clerk of El Paso county, is a native born Texan. Thirty-four years ago in the historic little village of Ysleta, a few miles below our growing city of El Paso, he first saw the light of day. Springing from fine old Spanish lineage, he has inherited all those noble qualities so inherent in and characteristic of the Latin race, upon which have been grafted by association and contact with progressive Americans, ideas of originality, progress and endeavor that have won for him by materialization a host of friends and admiring acquaintances.

Just as El Paso may be called the offspring and lusty son of Ysleta, which for years enjoyed the dignity of a county seat with its attendant officials and their headquarters until removed to El Paso, so Isaac Alderete at an early age outgrew the opportunities of his native village and moved to El Paso to cast his lot with the growing city.

He was soon recognized as a bright, intelligent young man by the Campbell Real Estate company, in whose employ he entered as a clerk and bookkeeper but his success and activity soon merited for him the promotion to general manager, a position which he filled with credit to himself and esteem of his employers for nearly nine years.

In 1898 he resigned to become the candidate for District Clerk on the Democratic ticket, and was as successful in his debut into politics as he had been in business life.

In his office Mr. Alderete soon merited the name of Reformer owing to the changes he inaugurated in the conduct thereof. We do not say this to disparage his predecessors, who were among the pioneers of this city, toiling to lay the foundation of our El Paso of today, but Mr. Alderete was a man of modern views, ahead of his time who soon equipped his office with labor saving devices and conducted it according to modern methods.

The attorneys of the El Paso bar who of necessity must come in contact with the District Clerk's office, are unanimous in their praise of the efficiency to be found there, of the courtesy with which they are treated, and of the business-like methods inaugurated during Mr. Alderete's regime.

The public also receives courteous and prompt attention either from the hands of the Clerk himself or one of his able deputies.

Right there in his office on the second floor of the court house, Mr. Alderete finds time from his many onerous duties to carry out his Maker's precept: "Help one another." Through the years of his incumbency in office Mr. Alderete's fame for charity has spread far and wide, especially among the Mexican people of the county, and they come to him from all parts for succor: here they come for help and assistance for their friends, their loved ones or themselves; to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, help the imprisoned and bury the dead. Many the time the corridor in front of his office looks like a waiting room to some free dispensary, old Mexican women, poorly clad, with the ever present mantilla around their shoulders, their brown faces drawn and furrowed with the years of toil and suffering wait patiently to see him pass, knowing full well that the pleasant word of cheer and the more encouraging bit of silver will be their reward. Now comes a mother with her babe in her arms to tell of the absent father and the dire want and poverty of her family. There a maid in tears, tells of a body lying cold in death, the earthly remains of all that was a mother, and yet she cannot give it a decent burial. All the sufferings, privations and sorrows of this life are poured into the ears of this man Alderete and he listens, consoles, counsels and helps. No wonder then that he is beloved by these poor people; no wonder then and well that he is in their eyes the personification of all that is noble, good and charitable. It may be truly said that no one in El Paso gives more of what he receives than Isaac Alderete, clerk of the District Court.

Hence his popularity among the people of El Paso, as the fame of his good deeds has spread far and wide. Hence it is that he has several times been elected to the office he now holds and hence because he is good and noble and capable of holding office, as manifested in the past, he is going to be returned to his present incumbency by the largest majority he ever polled, which has been some in the past.

SENTENCE SERMONS IN PULPITS OF EL PASO

The blood of Christian martyrs is the testimony of the power of Jesus Christ.—W. F. Natchel, of Juarez, at Calvary Baptist church.

Only as we see that Jesus is the Christ of God, can our work be effective in character, building.—G. G. Holde, Houston Square Baptist church.

El Paso contributes an excellent climate for a steady, progressive, useful Christian life.—Rev. C. R. Womeldorf, Westminster Presbyterian church.

I pity the man who attempts to live a Christian life under the un-Christian theory that it is possible to live to himself without influencing others.—Rev. Henry Easter, Church of St. Clement.

It is said that sheep nibble themselves astray; just so, men do not go astray but become so absorbed in the fascinations of this world that they wander off into moral and spiritual perdition.—Rev. C. L. Overstreet, First Presbyterian church.

A man must be a man of hope, catching a sight of the world as it is to be and he must be a man of love, loving the world as Christ loved it, if he would be effective in Christian service.—Rev. Caspar S. Wright, Trinity Methodist church.

This old bible, which has withstood every opposition of the past and has continued to send out a greater and greater influence each year, embodies the essentials necessary for Christian character.—Rev. A. N. Evans, Highland Park Methodist church.

"Jesus, the light of the world," is not only the only source of light and life to all creatures in the natural realm, but he is also the only fountain of spiritual light and life to all mankind in the moral realm.—Rev. Frank W. Otto, First Methodist church.

The fight against alcohol is not confined to Texas or the United States, but Germany, France, Italy and almost every country in the world are now agitating for the suppression of this destructive narcotic which is found to be subversive to the physical, mental and moral advancement of mankind.—Rev. Kenneth Brown, East El Paso Presbyterian church.

Since primitive men, even outlaws and robbers, have been faithful to one another when united by the blood covenant, how can we, professing to be civilized men, most sacredly and intimately united to Christ and symbolized in this union frequently by the communion service, excuse ourselves in doing anything displeasing to our Lord?—Dr. H. F. Wright, at First Baptist church.

MINISTERS HELP TO BUILD TABERNACLE

Working Along With Carpenters and Laborers to Finish Structure.

Putting aside their cloth for overalls, the protestant preachers of El Paso are pounding nails on the new evangelistic tabernacle instead of pounding their pulpits. On the Bassett lots on Mills street, the purchasers are at work putting the roof on the new tabernacle in which the union revival meetings are to be held beginning Sunday evening. The men who are building the structure Monday afternoon and will continue to labor on it during the day Tuesday. They are being assisted by the regular force of carpenters and have invited the members of the different congregations to assist in the actual work of construction on the temporary tabernacle.

Dr. E. J. Bulgin, the evangelist who has been secured to conduct the meetings, will arrive here Saturday in time for the opening meeting Sunday evening. George L. Rose, accompanied by Mrs. Rose, will arrive here on Wednesday and will drill the chorus choir, which is to be one of the features of the big meetings. Mr. Rose will also sing a solo at each meeting and will arrange for the special music. A meeting of the members of the chorus choir has been called for Friday evening at the Christian church by James A. Dick, chairman of the music committee. This meeting will be at 7:30 p. m. and will be in the nature of a final rehearsal of the big chorus preparatory to the opening meeting on next Sunday evening. Mr. Rose will also meet the members of the general committee composed of representatives of all the churches on Thursday evening at the Christian church. At this meeting the plans for the meeting will be finally arranged and all of the details discussed.

SANATORIUM MAY BE LOCATED IN LAS VEGAS.

Episcopalians Are Considering Erection of Institution in New Mexico. Albuquerque and Las Vegas have both been spoken of favorably as the location for a large sanatorium for the care of tubercular patients, which the Episcopal church in the United States is contemplating erecting in New Mexico.

At the recent general convention of the church, held in Cincinnati, O., a committee was appointed to investigate the matter and confer with the board of missions of the church work in the southwest. Archdeacon W. E. Warren, of Albuquerque, is a member of the committee.

The whole proposition is as yet in an indefinite condition. It is believed, however, that the sanatorium will be located in New Mexico.

May Prove Fatal

When Will El Paso People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first; But when you know 'tis from the kidneys; That serious kidney troubles follow; That aches, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.

You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of an El Paso citizen.

Mrs. N. J. Griner, St. Louis and Poplar Sts., El Paso, Tex., says: "About three years ago while living in Carlsbad, N. Mex., a member of our family suffered from Bright's disease. For over a year the person's feet and limbs were badly swollen and a severe pain in the small of the back caused much misery. Smothering spells were common and we often thought that the patient would die. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to us and we procured a box. They proved of benefit from the first and in three or four months the sufferer was in much better health. Doan's Kidney Pills have our highest endorsement."
